Another autobiographical work that dealt with lesbianism is Goja an autobiographical myth 2000 written by Suniti Namjoshi a lesbian feminist. She used autobiography, fantasy, and myth in her work. The book is written to two dead women: Goja, her childhood friend, and Goldie, her grandmother.

Suniti Namjoshi was born in 1941 in Mumbai, India. She is a poet and a fabulist. She grew up in India, worked in Canada, and currently lives in the southwest of England with English writer Gillian Hansbe. Her work is playful, inventive, and often challenges prejudices such as racism, sexism, and homophobia.

Challenging Queer as Neoliberal: The Radical Politics of Suniti Namjoshi's Goja an Autobiographical Myth 2000 perceives the question of lesbian visibility as a question of female labor and class relations among Goja.

Goja an autobiographical myth by Suniti Namjoshi discusses class privilege and poverty, language and literacy, and the contradictions that make up the confusing patterns of her life.
